ADRIA (ROVIGO, ITALY), 14TH MAY 2016

ADRIA IS GETTING READY FOR THE 2016 GRAND FINALE. The finale of the WSK Super Master Series is approaching fast and it is going to be a thrilling one. The fourth and last round of the event is on schedule next weekend, from 19th to 22nd May, at the Adria Karting Raceway. It is going to be an outstanding event especially for the OK and OK Junior categories: they have made their debut this year and they are going to have their first season's winners. Also the more experienced drivers of the KZ and KZ2 categories are aiming at a great achievement, as well as the drivers of the 60 Mini who are aiming at their first remarkable result. In few words, there are great expectations for this racing weekend in Adria, which reflects the great vivacity of international karting and its calendar always full of important appointments. The brand-new circuit in northern Italy is going to host an impressive series of events, beginning with next weekend's WSK Super Master Series.

TEAMS AND DRIVERS PREPARING THEIR STRATEGIES IN KZ AND KZ2. It is always possible to overtake, as the history of kart racing teaches us. The incremental scoring system, which will reach its peak in Adria, does not allow distractions. Marco Ardigo (Tony Kart-Vortex-Vega) is the current leader in KZ; behind him, trailing by few points, the French Anthony Abbasse (Sodi.-TM), who stands more than a chance to close the gap. Third position for the Italian Paolo De Conto (CRG-Maxter), who has the skills to aim at a great result. Same situation in KZ2, where the leader is the Italian Giacomo Pollini (CRG-TM-Vega), pursued by his fellow countrymen Leonardo Lorandi (Tony Kart-Vortex) and the surprising Luigi Musio (CRG-TM).

In the OK category the battle for the top positions is going to be tougher and more uncertain. The Spanish Pedro Hiltbrand's (CRG-Parilla-Vega) lead over the American Logan Sargeant (FA Kart-Vortex) amounts to less than 10 points. Behind them, the duel is between the French Clement Novalak and the Italian Lorenzo Trivisanutto (both on Tony Kart-Vortex), separated by only one point. In the OK Junior the undisputed leader is the Moroccan Sami Taoufik (FA-Vortex-Vega), pursued by talented drivers such as the Dutch Noah Watt (Tony Kart-Vortex) and the Spanish David Vidales (Energy-TM). In 60 Mini, the Italian Gabriele Mini (Energy-TM-Vega) achieved a great recovery and gained the leadership; behind him another Italian, Michael Paparo (IP Karting-TM) and the French Evann Mallet (CRG-TM).

THE FINAL SPRINT STREAMED LIVE.

All the duels on track deserve to be viewed moment by moment, thanks to the cameras deployed by the video production of WSK Promotion. Fans can watch the final phase of the competition, with all the races of Pre-finals and Finals, on Sunday 22nd, on the WSK official website wsk.it.
